not are in the conduct of the writer. It is a fact that the writer has been unable to make any impression produced by his articles in the Star, who is naturally concerned with the welfare of his country. The Star, which is a newspaper of Athens, may have exploited this desire of the Kaiser no far as to induce the Kaiser to send troops to the Balkans, but the European occupation of Crete, which would have been a disaster to the island, has not been a result of the outstanding question now menacing the island.

By the way, I wish to testify that of all the mortals who dabble in politics the most honest and the most sincere is the Kaiser. He is not misled by their mutual and laudable desire to make the world a better place. In Russia, he is endeavoring by insults and threats to prevent the Star from paying tribute to the Emperor.

Fortunately, they will fall in their first attempt to do so. The Kaiser is the ruler of the Russian ruler of its most effective weapon.

Nicholas is a weak ruler, because he is so amiable. He vacillates because he has no strong opinions. He is a weak ruler because he is an ornamental representative government in a country where the people are not free.

If Not, Get a Piece—Property Is Safety

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

It is time to talk again about OWNING REAL ESTATE.
A good many of our readers have bought land on our advice, many others will buy it.

Of those that have bought, some are glad and some are sorry. But only those that bought absolutely foolishly, without reflection or judgment, will regret their purchases in the long run.

There is just one thing that is safe and permanent as an investment, and that is THE EARTH ON WHICH WE STAND. While our system of private ownership of real estate shall last, the man who owns no ground cannot call himself free or safe.

Money saved vanishes suddenly, stocks drop in value. Real estate lasts, it rarely goes backward, it increases in price nearly always.

The romances of real estate profits are extraordinary all over the country. In Boston, of course, they are phenomenal.

There are in and near all of the big cities, Boston, New York, Chicago, San Francisco, everywhere, endless possibilities of profit in the future, of security, comfort and health now.

Improved transportation facilities are opening up new tracts, making them accessible as homes, and eventually giving them value for business purposes.

On and near the various railroads and street car lines leading out of this city there are empty fields THAT WILL BE FULL OF HOUSES IN YOUR LIFETIME.

Of the men now selling real estate in lots, many actually believe that they are charging too much and getting from the public more than they ought to get.

But those very real estate men, many of them, will live to lament the fact that they sold their land even for three times its apparent value: they will bitterly regret that they did not hold on to it.

Think about real estate, about combining the saving of rent, the making of a good, safe investment and big future profits, AND, ABOVE ALL, A COMFORTABLE, HEALTHY HOME FOR YOURSELF AND FAMILY.

Don't be in too great a hurry, but don't wait too long. Little by little the land in the best places will slip away and go up in value.

Look over the field for yourself. Read the advertisements of real estate for sale, and write your friends in the country and get any special information that you can.

Go out and look at the property. Don't get excited and hurried or talked into buying against your will. Think everything over carefully, the distance from your work, the distance from the railroad station, the probable improvement in railroad facilities.

If you can afford it, buy two or three lots rather than one. As soon as you build on one of your lots it increases the value of the others, and that increase might as well come to YOU.

The other lots can be used for a garden, or a small chicken farm, and a working playground for your children, while increasing in value. If you are not able to build now, buy your land now, pay for it

Little by little if you cannot pay all, BUT DON'T GO BEYOND YOUR MEANS under any circumstances.

Build a small house at first, as you get the money, and live in it while you are saving to make the house bigger. You could easily start with a four-room house, small, modest, and put on an addition without spoiling the looks of it.

If you have bought, or when you do buy, don't get discouraged because you see grass and weeds growing in the lot that was so well kept while the real estate speculator was booming it.

Don't be discouraged if you fail to see dozens of buildings sprouting like mushrooms. Growth comes slowly, even after transportation facilities exist.

The famous Boston actress, "Lottie" Crabtree, who has great faith in the real estate of this city and has seen her large downtown investments grow to phenomenal proportions, bought a number of lots for $6,000 apiece some years ago on One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, in New York. She succeeded in getting her money back on the ground that she had been swindled.

THOSE LOTS ARE WORTH TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS APIECE NOW

First the railroad must exist, and then the people must gather, AND THEN THE LAND GOES UP IN VALUE WITH A BUSH.

Get your piece of ground NOW, use your judgment, and then stick to your judgment and have confidence.

Get a map of the city and the suburbs before you buy. See how near you are to thickly populated regions—that is important. Examine the time tables, find out what trains go to the neighborhood you select and what are the prospects of improvement.

Be deliberate, careful, KEEP WITHIN YOUR MEANS, FOR DEBT AND WORRY ARE ABOMINABLE.

But get a good piece of real estate, and hold on to it if you can.

"ENGLISH AS IT IS SPOKE"

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Permit me to say a few words regarding the use, or rather the mis-use, of the English language by the American youth. I am a foreigner myself, and after having learned the English language always try to use it correctly.

The English, to my mind, is the richest of all languages, containing varieties of words and expressions alien to other languages. This is due to the fact that English is a product of Anglo-Saxon, French and Latin languages.

The American young men and women, however, do not seem to be aware of all this and refuse to conform to the laws of grammar established by authorities, and long usage. One could often hear expressions as these: "I ain't got no money" and "He don't know" and many others

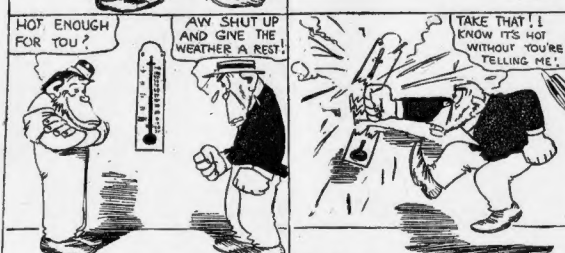

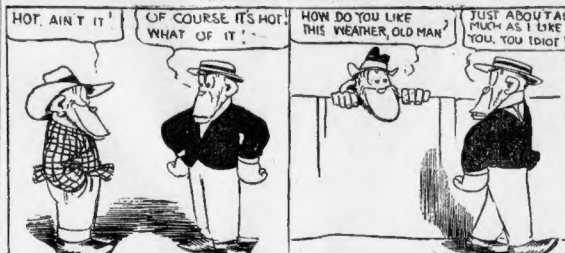

I think that the remedy lies within the public schools. Less attention should be paid to drawing and fancy handwriting and more to English grammar and rhetoric, and as a result the correct usage of the English language will be preserved.

HELPED IN LEARNING ENGLISH

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I indeed, was a most agreeable surprise to see my name among the winners of your "Love at first sight" contest. I am in receipt of the order for the box you so kindly sent and I wish to thank you, Mr. Mies Coghlan, very much. I can truthfully say that I think the BOSTON AMERICAN the fairest paper in New England. I have read the AMERICAN ever since I have been able to read the English language, which is only six years, as a Russian and have been in America six and a half years. I have always found the BOSTON AMERICAN editorials helpful. The little that I know of the English language I learned from reading

Wishing the BOSTON AMERICAN every success, and thanking you again,
Very truly yours,
NETTIE WILLIAMS.
